

To: The Board of Directors for the IT
University of Copenhagen

November 14th 2003

Report regarding doctoral dissertation and the defence hearing

On November 14th 2003, Assoc. Prof. Finn Kensing, IT University of Copenhagen, presented and defended his doctoral dissertation Methods and Practices in Participatory Design at the IT University of Copenhagen.

Official critics were:

- Prof. Dr. Ina Wagner, Vienna University of Technology, Austria
- Prof. Dr. Peter Mambrey, Fraunhofer Institute for Applied Information Technology, St. Augustin, Germany

Critics ex auditorio were:

- Professor Joan Greenbaum, City University of New York
- Professor Karl Heinz Kautz, Copenhagen Business School
- Associate Professor Jan Pries-Heje, The IT University

Both official critics found the defence adequate. On the basis of the dissertation and the oral defence we unanimously recommend that Finn Kensing be awarded the doctorate in natural sciences (dr.scient.).

Prof. Dr. Ina Wagner,
Vienna University of Technology

Prof. Dr. Peter Mambrey,
Fraunhofer Institute for Applied Information
Technology

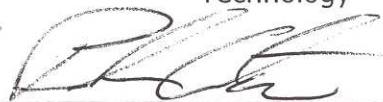

The official critics and the leader of the defence confirm that the defence was processed in accordance with the rules and regulations.

Prof. Dr. Ina Wagner,
Vienna University of Technology

Prof. Dr. Peter Mambrey,
Fraunhofer Institute for Applied Information
Technology

Assoc. Prof. Peter Carstensen
IT University of Copenhagen
Leader of the defence